

Att. Mr. Franco Frattini

Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Rome. Italy.

Madrid, 28th of January

Dear friend

In view of the news received through European media and the public outcry of Italian victims of terrorism (AIVITER), the European Network of Victims of Terrorism cannot avoid reacting against the serious interference of the Brazilian government denying Cesare Battisti's extradition, sheltering the violence and terror inside their boundaries and hindering the compliance of current international legislation regarding criminal proceedings and sentences for convicted terrorists.

This behavior has supposed a lack of sensitivity and a serious insult to Italian and European victims of terrorism, and because of this, the European Network of Victims of Terrorism wants to support and express its total solidarity with the Italian government in this disappointing and offensive incident which affects to the whole democratic European society.

The victims of terrorism will always support those Governments which make of the fight against terrorism one of their main aims.
